THREE MINUTE TALES

Mountain Music by AD SCHUSTER

"JUST what kind of a crime was it that old Morgan did?" Fred Dwyer and Slim Reed, deputy sheriffs armed with authority, revolvers and a warrant, pushed ahead on a full day's walk up the mountain trail to the shack of Morgan, the prospector.

"As I get it," answered Slim, "the old prospector must be growing deaf, else why would he hike it all the way to town to bust into the Royal Loan Company?"

The long walk up the slope gave the two plenty of opportunity to discuss Morgan and their errand, and by the time the shadows had filled the valleys below there was not much left unsaid.

"I remember Old Man Morgan ever since I was a kid," Fred had said, "and my dad knew him before that."

"Same here," Slim put in, "and I never heard of his pulling a stunt like this before."

"They say he took to the hills when he was a young man and that he had a plan to pull a big one. Must be pretty hard on the old boy, now he is feeble."

Old Man Morgan's shack was near the top and it stood in the brushy growth as the two deputy sheriffs approached it.

Smoke first showed them that Morgan was home and then the singing of a violin reached their ears.

Sunset on a mountain peak, tall trees waving silver plumes, and out of immense silence, Beethoven played lovingly by an artist.

Deputy sheriffs are human and they were not immune to the beauty of the window and looked in.

OLD MAN MORGAN sat close to the fire, the pulsing glow lighting his long white hair. He was sitting in the chair, his feet put up, perhaps his soul and his story, the sunset and the mountains into the voice of the violin.

The two men of the law didn't know music, but they knew that this was something more, and they stood without moving until the sun set and the last note broke like a sob.

Then they saw old Morgan hold the violin close to his cheek, patting it with his hand. They saw that he was weeping, saw him pull himself together, pack the instrument in its case and take his coat from a nail. Then they pushed open the door.

Morgan eyed them shyly, a bit frightened. "I sort of expected you," he said, "and yet I am telling the truth when I say I was just about to take it back."

Penniless, Man Orders Meal in Cafe; Ends Life

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 11.—A philosophy of suicide was expounded today in an illuminating letter left by James Bradley, who ended his life in a restaurant with a meal which he could not pay for set before him.

Coming from Eureka recently, Bradley, unable to find work, sold his possessions until he had only the clothes on his back, and then accepted the advice of a sergeant of police to appeal to passing citizens.

He picked out, he says, a man of wealth and prominence and that one will never know it by close he came to death. His refusal would have meant his murder, Bradley writes, had been armed.

NOTE TELLS FEELINGS TOWARD TAKING LIFE. Bradley's note read:

"To whom it may concern: In case I am found dead or dying my name is James J. Bradley, and I have taken poison, being out of employment and without money. I hate to take my own life, but I want to die and get over with. I have no one depending on me. I have no living relative that I know of. So I don't think that anybody will miss me."

Some people claim that it is a coward's way to commit suicide, but that's a matter of opinion. I think it takes a lot of nerve for a person to take his own life. I think that a man or woman who is afraid to die is a coward. There are lots of people that feel that way and think that they would be better off dead than alive, and they are afraid to die, but I am not.

The only thing that makes me feel a bit nervous is that the poison will not do the work it is supposed to do. I hope it will and I will bid this world good bye, and I am not worrying about the next.

SAYS POLICE SERGEANT ASKED HIM TO BEG. "I came to San Francisco from Eureka about a month ago and what little money I had was soon gone. I sold my watch and chain and other effects and have nothing left but the clothes on my back. Then I realized that I was against it. Then I commenced to feel the pangs of hunger and I had no money to pay for a room. I was forced to walk the streets at night. I could not ask for charity."

"A sergeant of police advised me to forget my pride and so I determined I would and last night at a late hour I approached a man on Market street and asked him for a nickel, although he is rich. He advised me to go to a charitable institution. He said he contributed to such an institution."

FOOTING BEFORE. "He could have given me something and not miss it, but he did not. He said he did not believe it. If I would have had a gun at that time or an axe, or a heavy club or something I believe I would have killed him right there and then. I have committed suicide but I hope that I will meet him in hell when we will be on equal terms. I might be able to return the compliment more to the massive. Bradley realized the killing power of a certain poison but was unable to obtain any of it. He got the nearest substitute, but was fearful that it might not do his work."

He requests that his only friend in the world, Miss May Riker, housekeeper at the Children's Hospital, 4600 Sunset Boulevard, Los Angeles, be notified.

Bradley had evidently taken the poison before entering the cafe, at 38 Third street. He ordered a meal, although penniless, and as it was placed before him he died on the floor. In a moment he was dead.

WOMAN SCENARIO WRITER DRAWN INTO TAYLOR CASE PROBE THROUGH WOOLWINE

Intimate Friend of Dead Director Is Expected to Throw Light on His Habits and Friendships MABEL NORMAND THREATENED

(By United Press) LOS ANGELES, Feb. 11.—A new witness made his appearance in the William D. Taylor murder investigation late today. Dressed in worker's garb, an extremely agitated young man was ushered into the office of District Attorney Thomas Lee Woolwine this afternoon. It was Frank Britt, machinist for the Southern Pacific Company.

Following the examination, the district attorney said that Britt, who lived in the vicinity of the house in which Taylor was slain, had been questioned concerning reports that he saw a stranger near the Taylor house acting suspiciously on the night of the murder.

By CHARLES E. HUGHES, International News Service Staff Correspondent LOS ANGELES, Feb. 11.—A woman, middle-aged and of the quiet, intellectual type, known to have been deeply in love with William Desmond Taylor, slain film director, while actresses showered him with affectionate attentions, was expected to be called to the district attorney's office to be questioned today in an entirely new and important phase of the investigation of the mysterious murder.

Taylor's tragic death, it was stated, caused the woman to go into seclusion and deep mourning. The woman's name was withheld, but it was learned that she was known in filmland as a scenario writer.

The unrequited love of the woman for Taylor, it was learned, extended over a period of years. No suspicion is directed against her, but investigators believe she may be able to throw light on Taylor's life which may reveal a tangible clue.

A theory that Taylor may have been slain by blackmailers was revived today when it was reported that the district attorney's office had been furnished with information suggesting that he was being blackmailed. The director may have been threatened by a gang of blackmailers—a move that may have resulted in his death.

THREATENED BY CRANKS. A representative of Mabel Normand announced today that the result of linking of her name with the Taylor murder probe she has received many letters. Some came from friends, but others, it was said, were from "cranks." In which threats were made. It was emphasized by police investigators that Mabel Normand is not in fear of any violence from these "cranks."

It was learned today that among the witnesses who were interviewed yesterday in connection with the murder case was a nurse who deposed that she saw a mysterious man wearing a cap and muffer watching Miss Normand and Taylor as they stood in front of the Taylor home the night of the murder. Detectives kept a close tab during the night on the man, but he was not seen.

In addition to the letters, Mabel Normand received at her office, District Attorney Woolwine is reported to have possession of some letters written by Mary Miles Minter to the slain director. The letters, it was said, had personally examined by officers that his investigators have obtained and found nothing in them of a character which throws any light on the man's mystery.

Charles A. Jones, retired chief of police and at one time investigator for Woolwine, has been in conference with the district attorney for the last two days and it was believed that he was still investigating a report that in his file he had picked up near the scene of the murder.

The police today were hopeful of getting some definite trace of the revolver with which Taylor was slain. They were still investigating a report that in his file he had picked up near the scene of the murder.

By FRANK H. BARTHOLOMEW, United Press Staff Correspondent LOS ANGELES, Feb. 11.—District Attorney Woolwine, leading the man hunt for the murderer of William D. Taylor, was believed to have struck the straight trail today.

From out of the conflicting, tangled mass of evidence and suspicion, the chief investigator emerged with three quantities in the case—the assassin, the instigator and the motive.

1—The slayer is now believed to be a man leaving the dead director's home on the evening of the crime.

2—The instigator is believed to have been a wealthy, jealous rival of Taylor's—has been under constant surveillance by the police.

3—The motive—which was at first thought to have been blackmail—has been definitely established as jealousy, the district attorney's office is convinced.

With these three leads, the district attorney's office was today finally launched into an attempt to sustain the theory that the murder was committed by order of a wealthy easterner, jealous of an actress. Facts regarding three other suspects have been temporarily shelved and all efforts are being concentrated upon evidence that will convict or exonerate the man in question.

MISS NORMAND'S STATEMENT SATISFIES. Mabel Normand, film actress, whose name has been most prominently mentioned in connection with the Taylor murder, was today called to the district attorney's office for a signed statement which she wrote for the United Press.

It was understood that the district attorney was perfectly satisfied with Miss Normand's statement. He had read her letters and announced they will not be made public unless it can be proven that they have a direct bearing on the case.

A fresh development which today led the investigators straight, they believe, to the trail of the actual slayer, was the testimony of a nurse whose name is withheld.

This woman told the district attorney that she was passing along Alameda street near Taylor's house at 7:30 p. m. on February 1 and saw the director and Mabel Normand conversing with a man. She said that she saw the man—believed now to be the murderer—the mysterious black-muffled figure with the low-

$50 MONTHLY IS ALIMONY GRANTED SOCIETY WOMAN

Frank H. MacQuarrie Convin-

Only $160 Per Month.

Mrs. Helen MacQuarrie, Oakland society woman, will receive $50 a month temporary alimony. Instead of $250, from Francis MacQuarrie, motion picture studio manager, as a result of MacQuarrie's "close-up" of his financial state before Judge Trout in San Francisco yesterday.

Mrs. MacQuarrie is seeking a divorce from MacQuarrie on the ground of desertion. She accuses him of having driven her from their home in 1915 and of having been absent nights without offering a satisfactory explanation.

In seeking $250 temporary alimony Mrs. MacQuarrie asserted that MacQuarrie had received in excess of $500 monthly salary as managing director of a San Francisco moving picture studio and that MacQuarrie had told her father his income last year had amounted to $100,000. MacQuarrie in court yesterday, however, told an entirely different story. He said it would be impossible for him to pay $250 temporary alimony to a woman who had been married to him for 10 years. The amount of the salary was confirmed by MacQuarrie's brother, Kenneth, owner of the studio. The reduction in alimony then

VETERANS GET NO STATE AID UNTIL LAW IS TESTED

Controller Riley Turns Down Two Orders Received by Board of Control.

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 11.—Two claims presented by the state veterans' welfare board through the board of control were formally rejected yesterday by State Controller Ray L. Riley as a result of doubt as to the validity of the veterans' aid acts passed by the last legislature. Riley had announced several days ago that he would take such action, following a conference with Attorney General U. S. Webb. Doubt as to the constitutionality of the acts was raised by former State Senator John B. Curtin of Tulare county last week. At a meeting of the veterans' welfare board, which is expected to be held soon, plans will be made to seek a writ of mandamus to compel the controller to issue the warrants, it was stated by Robert F. Smith, secretary of the board. This step, Smith said, would result in bringing the case before the Supreme Court for decision.

In 1921 Paris Lost 16,145 Umbrellas

PARIS, Feb. 11.—Parisians or visitors here lost 16,145 umbrellas in the streets and public squares of Paris last year. The losses seem to have been the result of a light heart, for only 5000 were claimed. Many umbrellas still awaiting claimants at the prefecture of Police lost property office are of a costly kind, ranging in value from 100 to 600 francs, and are fine examples of the latest craze for Japanese ivory sword-handled affairs.

BOWIE MARRIED JAPANESE WOMAN, LAWYER CLAIMS

Estate Left to "Widow" and Two Sons, Is Claim of Contest Over Will.

Henty Pike Bowie, capitalist, attorney, author and student of Japanese affairs, had his reasons for bequeathing $100,000 to a Japanese woman and her two sons. He was not suffering "mental aberration as a result of Japanese religious beliefs."

He did not do it to bring about a defilement of his spirit as a Japanese god.

The woman to whom Bowie left the major portion of his estate is known in Japan as Mrs. Konia Hirano Bowie and her sons, Inao and Takeo, are likewise Bowie's sons.

SUIT IS STARTED

This was announced today by Louis F. Dunkley, San Francisco attorney, who has been engaged by the Japanese legation to represent them in the courts at the will contest hearings.

The Bowie will which left $100,000 to each of his American relatives and $100,000 to the Japanese woman and her sons has been contested by George Howard, San Francisco architect, and Bowie's disinherited stepson.

Howard contends that the Hiranos were simply the hosts of Bowie during his many visits to Japan and that he left them the bequest in the hope that his spirit would be defiled according to the Japanese custom. He says that Bowie suffered a mental aberration as a result of Oriental religious beliefs.

LIVED IN ORIENT

Dunkley sets forth that Bowie was known as The Great in his adopted country and that his spirit was defiled, but according to his information Bowie was taking care of relatives and not friends when he left the Japanese family the fortune.

For the past twenty-five years Bowie has spent the majority of his life in Japan, making six trips to the land of cherry blossoms. Throughout the period, however, he maintained his residence at San Mateo.

Prior to and after the death of his American wife in 1913 Bowie was known chiefly as a prominent San Francisco attorney, recorder of Hillsborough and a student of Japanese affairs.

TO GIVE DANCE

SAN LEANDRO, Feb. 11.—The initial dance of the season will be given tonight at the St. Joseph's hall by the Titan Club of San Leandro. According to the committee in charge, elaborate preparations have been made and excellent music has been obtained for the occasion.

The committee in charge is as follows: "Bus" Wright, Ray Hooley, "Charlie" Douglas, Dick Pettibone and "Frank" Jones. The dance will be the first of a proposed series to be held throughout the year.

AGREEMENT IN DISTRIBUTION OF FUNDS REACHED

RICHMOND, Feb. 11.—Compromise was effected last night when visiting American Legion Post representatives agreed with Richmond Post that $15,000 would be a just figure for the amounts to be apportioned by the county supervisors to the smaller posts of Contra Costa county for the purpose of erecting memorial buildings. Hereafter the Richmond Post has considered $10,000 as the proper amount to be assured the smaller posts, while the latter posts insisted that $15,000 would not be excessive.

Rev. Paul Little, former commander of Richmond Post, made the motion for compromise after a long discussion from all angles. Jock Boyer, chairman of the county council, Tony Kigande, Charles Jobs, Merrill Wright and George Dawson, all of Martinez; Roy Spencer and T. S. Barry of Walnut Creek took part in the discussion. Commander Thomas Carlson of Richmond Post was chairman.

FRANCE, SPAIN ON BAD TERMS OVER AFRICA HOLDINGS

Chicago Manufacturer Says Madrid Suspects Paris of Supporting Moors.

Strained relations have arisen between France and Spain in regard to the North African interests of those two countries, and a good deal of diplomatic explaining is going on between Paris and Madrid. So says William F. Morris, Chicago manufacturer, who has been on a tour of the European continent, and who is visiting the bay cities on his annual business trip. Morris said: "The Spanish attribute much of their ill success in the campaign against the Moors to the attitude of the French who, they say, are giving a great deal of quiet support to the rebels. Matters came to a head some time ago, when the governor of the Spanish 'sphere of influence' made a public declaration to the effect that France intends to be the sole master of Northern Africa, and that she is bent on eliminating the Spanish influence and power."

QUARREL TAKEN UP

The quarrel was taken up both in Spain and France, though the Spanish governor afterward declared that he had not been "correctly quoted."

As a result of this feeling, King Alfonso is not so popular these days with the Spaniards as he used to be, and the Madrid police have taken precautions to stop demonstrations against the French.

"Yet it is not considered likely that this feeling of distrust between the two nations will lead to grave complications, for their interests do not clash in other vital respects. In fact, there is a good deal of French capital invested in Spain. The Spaniards are going ahead wonderfully in an economic sense, for Spain has 'made hay while the sun shone' during the great war."

PEOPLE SHOW ENERGY

"I was impressed by the numerous public works being carried out under direct government supervision throughout the Peninsula, and by the spirit of energy shown by the people, which is usually depicted as being rather lethargic. I was hospitably received wherever I went, and did not notice a trace of anti-American sentiment anywhere, though the Spanish-American war is still fresh in the memory of the present generation."

Morris also visited France, Belgium, Holland, Germany and Austria. In Holland he was surprised to see that the Dutch are still receiving large numbers of underfed Austrian children, who spend their holidays in the country before they are returned to their homes. Morris says the Dutch and the Americans are called the "benefactors of Austria" by the grateful population of the quantum Hapsburg Empire.

He is Harry Lessner, 19 years old. With George Jackel he was convicted of murder in connection with the death of Isadore Rabinowitz, a bystander, who was shot during the attempted robbery of a jewelry store by Jackel and Lessner. "I didn't mean to kill anyone," was Lessner's only comment when sentence was passed.

LAUGHS AT PROPOSAL

QUEBEC, Feb. 11.—That is the biggest joke that has come over the wires in a century, Premier Tascheau of Quebec declared when informed of the resolution introduced at Washington by Senator King of Utah, suggesting that Canada give up a portion of the province in exchange for a partnership in the proposed St. Lawrence waterway.

There never was a founder like Noah. He floated his stock when the whole world was in inundation.

HOLLYWOOD SECRETS BARED!

The greatest motion picture story of the year, by the famous novelist, Idah McGlone Gibson, has been contracted for by The Oakland Tribune. It will start in The Tribune Monday and appear daily thereafter.

"STARLIGHT"

A Superb Love Story of the Movies

WATCH THE TRIBUNE!

Virginia Fairfax, orphaned, just, budding into young womanhood, filled with modern ideas and as lively as a thoroughbred colt, found life in the ancestral household a continual conflict between her ambitions for a career and the whims and prejudices of an austere, puritanical grandfather. The spirit of adventure was in her blood. Filmland beckoned. Ambition answered "Go." Virginia fled to the Land of Make-Believe and the romantic story of her climb to the heights in the Silent Drama is a thrilling piece of realism which every reader—old or young—will find absorbingly interesting. It is full of striking incidents and episodes, superb climactic moments and highly emotional love scenes, all of which go to make Virginia Fairfax, cradled in comfort and the true daughter of a state famed for wondrous women, is a sweet, lovable Miss but withal, spirited, rebellious, ambitious—a throw-back to the days when knighthood was in flower. She craved a career—as her mother had done before her—and the struggles and joys, the disappointments and triumphs that are an inescapable part of success. Her grandfather, a lineal descendant of the founder of the family—the sixth baron Fairfax of Virginia, and a friend of George Washington—inordinately proud of his blood and family, was austere, bigotted, narrow and puritanical in his ideas. With Virginia just budding into young womanhood, filled with modern ideas, there was a continual conflict between grandfather and grandchild. In the clash of modern with medieval ideas. Youth won as Youth always must.

Secretly, in the night, aided by her Aunt, Virginia fled the stately mansion of her ancestors and a life of ease in order that her own soul and spirit might find expression in the great world that lay mistily beyond the Virginia hills of her home town. Her destination was Hollywood—Hollywood in California!—that magic vale whence came the marvelous pictures which thrilled her valiant little soul with dreams of artistic conquest. All unknowing Virginia Fairfax was a maid to whom men pour libations. Even at sixteen she gave promise of great beauty, while her spirited disposition, and powers of mind beyond her years, made her a fiery little spearhead in a phalanx of progress.

Virginia Fairfax's introduction into Filmland, her surprises, adventures, defects and triumphs, her progress through pitfalls and over obstacles, her contact with men, good and bad, her love affairs, her exciting work in motion-picture dramas, are a thrilling and romantic story that will grip and hold the imagination.

In this city, now, as you read, are countless girls and young men (and the mothers and fathers who watch over them) whose minds and hearts are touched by the lure of filmland. To them—to every reader of The TRIBUNE, "Starlight" will be a revelation—a slice of reality by that gifted and talented writer, Idah McGlone Gibson. She has spent six months of hard, painstaking work to collect the striking incidents and episodes; to gather the superb climactic moments; to create the highly emotional love scenes that go to make "STARLIGHT" the greatest serial of the Day.

Allemdale Players Should Listen to Manager's Advice

When the opposition has been on the field, the Allemdale players are no doubt thinking up every possible play that might be executed if a ball was hit in his direction, they know where they should have the ball when they get it in their hands. Frank Smith, manager of the Allemdale Merchants, said today that the eastern district give the poplars all credit due them for their victory last Sunday.

"They outplayed and outwitted us, and that's why we lost," he said. "But Smith also stated that the remarks made by Smith after the game, and his players' professed wonder at last Sunday's defeat, were enough to win the game for them tomorrow, the fans will see the Allemdale Merchants playing a different style of baseball, providing their players will follow instructions given them."

Poplar Infielders Showed The Fans Some Fine Work

The work of the Poplar infield last Sunday was so good that it was a surprise to the fans who had not watched it during the season. Rocky Kansas Is Defeated By B. Leonard Lightweight Champion Badly Mussed Up by the Challenger.

By HENRY L. PARRELL.

United Press Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Rocky Kansas is not the world's lightweight champion because class most always tells.

Matched against the skill and grace of Benny Leonard, king of the lightweight, the Buffalo Italian ran second in the round and lost to win.

Scoring a knockdown in the eleventh round and earning a wide margin in nine of the fifteen, Leonard held his title, but he was at times a worried and a badly mussed up champion.

The black locks, seldom mussed by any bold challenger, were all on end and his lips were puffed and his face was a crimson smear from a stream that trickled from his nose.

It was a piston-like right to the head that took the steam out of Kansas in the ninth round when it had looked all the way like the dimpled little Rocky would have a chance to win.

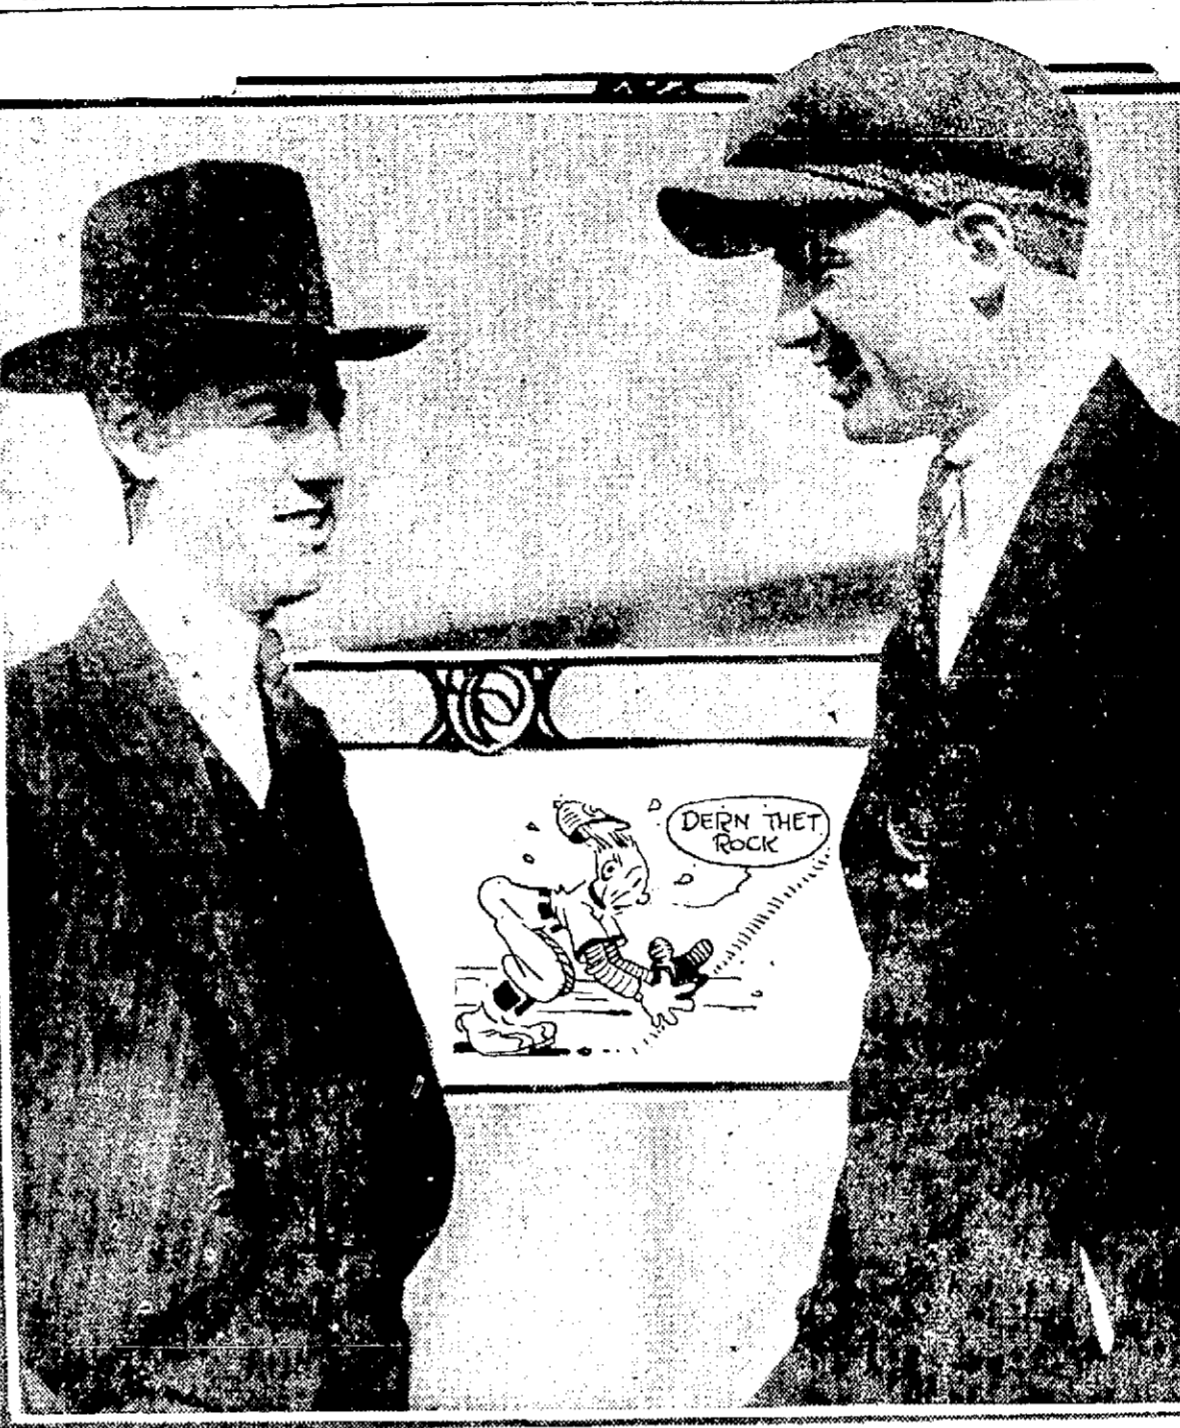

For eight rounds, Kansas carried the fight to the champion and the only register that Leonard could get out was a vicious right hook to the jaw.

It was a smile on the face of his target. It looked like a knockout in the eleventh round and only the iron chin and the steel jaw of the Buffalo boy saved him. The back-hand blow, barred in most every place but New York, instead of winning the fight for Kansas, did more than anything else to cause him to lose the fight.

Right in the eleventh round, Leonard tried to swing back with the same motion, but Leonard beat him with a hard left to the chin, and he dropped for a count of nine. He was a fortunate boy to finish the round.

TRIBUNE LEAGUE TEAM LEADERS

Here are a couple of young fellows who made good as managers in the California division of The OAKLAND TRIBUNE Class "B" Midwinter League. On the left is FRED RUSSELL, manager of the St. Joseph's Sodality team. His boys did not win more than a couple of games in the league, but he always managed to have a full nine on the field and hustling all the time. The young man on the right is RENE LASSALLE, manager of the Telegraph Avenue Merchants, who are tied for first place with Hayward and Niles. The Telegraphs play the Hayward Natives tomorrow.

LOCAL SOCCER TEAMS PLAY CUP TIE GAMES SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Allemdales Meet South Side Club and Sons of St. George Play Riverside Eleven.

The second round of the cup ties series of the Soccer League of California takes place tomorrow with local teams of the Eastbay Soccer League battling for honors against outside elevens at Recreation Park in San Francisco. The drawing of the second round brings two Oakland teams opposed to two elevens from Sacramento. While but little is known of the strength of the up-state soccerites, it is a foregone conclusion that they do not play a better brand of soccer than that produced by the Allemdale and Neptune clubs of the Eastbay League at their match last Sunday at Alameda. That was a never-to-be-forgotten game as far as the spectators were concerned, and as a result of it the Neptunes and Allemdales both are in a position to command respect from the strongest soccer teams of the state. Last Sunday two of the Eastbay teams ventured forth in the cup tie games without success and tomorrow's contests mark the second of the series.

The line-up announced for the Sons of St. George follows:

Goal, Devlin; fullbacks, Hull, Gray; halfbacks, Thompson, Blum, Spurgeon; forwards, Butler, Jackson, J. Spurgeon (captain), Wallater.

In the field for the Allemdales, runners up of the Eastbay league at present, will be Goal, Peck; fullbacks, W. Robertson, Brown, halfbacks, Elliott, Timmons, March or Sharp; forwards, Souda, F. Robertson, W. Dyer, Miller, Barry or O. Dyer. The referee of tomorrow's game will be McAskham.

Big Benefit Dance At Neptune Tonight

This evening is the occasion of the big benefit dance to be held under the auspices of the Eastbay Soccer Football League at Neptune Beach for the benefit of the injured players. The dance will be held at the Neptune Club, and the proceeds will be used for the benefit of the injured players.

Sons of St. George Meet Riverside Club

The Sons of St. George are due to start the day's football at 12:30 when they kick off to the Riverside Club of Sacramento, rated as the most formidable of the up-state teams. The Riverside team eliminated the Eagles last Sunday in Sacramento while tomorrow's game is the first of the series for the Sons of St. George. The Sons, after a week of rest, are in prime condition for the battle and will have a most aggressive line-up.

South Side-Allendale Will Be Hard Game

But the first is not always the best and yesterday A. B. Lowe, of the Eastbay Soccer League, dropped in for a few moments to discuss the big event of 2:30 between the Allemdales and the Southside club of Sacramento. The Southsides are playing their second game of the season, and the Allemdales are playing their first. The game is expected to be a hard one.

CHAMPIONSHIP GAMES ON SCHEDULE OF THE CLASS 'B', 'C' TEAMS

Coast League, Washington Park, Hayward Diamonds Will Be Scenes of Big Battles

By MAURY PESSANO.

For the past couple of months baseball fans all over the county have been watching with great interest the results in the California division of The Oakland TRIBUNE Class B league. The race for the pennant in that division has rested between four clubs, the Hayward Natives, Niles Victory Motors, Telegraph Avenue Merchants, and the Twenty-third Avenue Merchants. Today three clubs are tied for first place, the Twenty-third Avenue boys losing out several weeks ago. All three clubs have completed their schedule of fourteen games. The wise birds who figured that the big doings would not be on until the winners of each division of the junior league hooked up for the championship have another guess coming. It must be admitted that the frays between the league leaders in the California division have been as strong and important as the first championship game last Sunday at the Oakland Coast league park between the Western Electrics and the Alameda West End Merchants.

Tomorrow morning and afternoon the biggest happenings since the opening of the Class B and C leagues will take place at the Oakland Coast league park in the Class B league. Both clubs are tied for first place. The third fray of the day will be played at Hayward between the Telegraph Avenue Merchants and the Hayward Natives.

Young Fellows Put Up Some Snappy Baseball

Fans who traveled to the Oakland Coast league park last Sunday morning to see the first game of the season were a great game of ball between two championship clubs. These two clubs will battle again tomorrow at "Val" Electric's ball orchard. The Western Electrics romped home with the first win. The beating that George Hays' boys suffered last Sunday has not discouraged them at all, and tomorrow will see them take the field against the Western Electrics with plenty of fighting spirit. Last Sunday's contest was a hot one, and at no time during the fray did the Westerns look like a club to walk home with the bacon.

Robert Stewart Wins Checker Championship

GLASGOW, Scotland, Feb. 11.—The 25th annual Scottish checker championship was won today by Robert Stewart, a 21-year-old student at the University of Glasgow. Stewart won the title by defeating the American champion, Dr. J. H. Van Dine, in a match of 20 games. Stewart won 12 and Van Dine won 8.

Big Games Scheduled at Hayward, Alameda Fields

The second big game in the Class B league is scheduled for the Hayward high school grounds. The local north end of the board of directors of the western boys.

Northern Team Appeared Lost on Auditorium Floor and Bears Win by 37 to 18.

have been and should have been worse. The Cougars appeared to be lost on the large court, their style of playing displaying flashes of passing at times, but always in the end of the court at which they were not permitted to take shots at the basket. This proved to

to a great disadvantage, for they had the inclination to shoot and obeyed that impulse on frequent occasions, much to the glee of the Bears who were content to watch their opponents place their trust in long, high arc shots from mid-court which, upon rare occasions, entered the net. Not often enough, however, to effect the desired ously lead the Bears had built up in the first half, for in that period the Bears applied themselves to the task in hand with the industry of a squad of bees preparing for winter.

When the gun sounded the end of the first half the Blue and Gold were leading 25-7 and the five was functioning with the precision of a well-oiled motor. Constantly eluding his guard, Talt was the ace in the hole for the Bears. Hermonson, the man delegated by Coach Egleston to hold the Bears scoreless, failing miserably of the attempt. The remainder of the first half the Bears were in the ascendency. When the second half started the Bears were again in the ascendency. When the gun sounded the end of the game the Bears were leading 45-10. The Bears were in the ascendency. When the gun sounded the end of the game the Bears were leading 45-10.

BASKETBALL

Talt and Egleston

Feature for Bears.

The scoring done by Talt was made possible by the great floor work of the Bears. Hermonson, the man delegated by Coach Egleston to hold the Bears scoreless, failing miserably of the attempt. The remainder of the first half the Bears were in the ascendency. When the second half started the Bears were again in the ascendency. When the gun sounded the end of the game the Bears were leading 45-10.

RENO, Nev., Feb. 11.—The St. Ignace basketball five defeated Nevada today here last night in a close game by a score of 24-23.

TUCSON, Ariz., Feb. 11.—University of Southern California 48, University of Arizona 20.

WALLA WALLA, Feb. 11.—Whitquintet who played up to form throughout. While the remainder of the men from Berkeley were in court on charges of kidnapping and kidnapping, it was the lawless work of the California legislature that accounted for this massive defeat, being administered to the team which, after losing, was whipped them 26-21. Equestrian, with his pivot turn, eluded Sorenson on numerous occasions in drinking Washington State. It is true, showed little or no knowledge of the use of the dribble, their attempts in the first half were not only ineffective, but referee Hollander. The double dribble was their worst fault; and it was evident that the men on the team were not only inexperienced, but undeveloped, possessing little to a great tion, which won them the Standard series, and their basketball playing ability as it was displayed last night.

Captain Friel Is Best of Visitors.

Captain Friel was the leading artist for the home delegation. Friel relied on one hand but his point is the foots shooter of the team. Two long shots and two more by Clesna and Friel, but the most successful regularly with which the Berkeley bone crushers wheeled their offense took the element of doubt out of the contest.

First five minutes and the partisan California speculators were the only ones to enjoy the latter stages of the game. But it is a funny game. The Bruins did the same thing to W. S. C. up north in the first game, not by such a wide margin. The Bruins were the first to come back and kicked away the second game by two points. The two teams meet again tonight and on the showing last night "the evens" who invest their worldly wealth on the outcome of such athletic contests would be giving considerable odds that the Bruins would win. As we said, basketball is a funny game. Not only everyone will stay away tonight, convinced beyond a doubt that it will be a "no show" night's affair, and then the Bruins may win.

Modesto Women Are Pleased
With Work Done by University Extension Agent.

MODESTO, Feb. 11.—The home demonstration department of the university extension service, conducted by Mrs. Hope Baxter, has within a few short weeks come to be recognized as the most popular movement in the county.

Mrs. Baxter already is finding herself confronted by crowds of women. The crowds are so big that she finds herself handicapped in her demonstration work.

The secret of her success, it is believed, is that she is teaching the women how to make their own hats and what types of hats are becoming to them.

No other feature of the university extension service in the county is able to draw a big crowd at every scheduled meeting.

Intensive training classes in hat making have been announced by Mrs. Baxter for February 20, 21, 22 and 23, at which time Miss Ethelene Dodson, clothing expert of the University of California, will be here. She will conduct four all-day classes, two of them in Modesto and two in Turlock. The attendance at the classes will be limited to two women from each of the farm centers. They will be given training that will enable them to aid Mrs. Baxter. In this way Mrs. Baxter hopes to be able to give instruction to all the women of the county who wish to make and wear becoming hats.

Rheumatism Germ
Located, Is Claim

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Feb. 11.—That chronic rheumatism is caused by the same germ that causes dysentery is indicated by discoveries made by Dr. Leonard Ely of the Stanford medical school and his associates.

Active further studies are going on with the hope of confirming what may prove to be not only one of the striking recent medical discoveries, but also one that offers a probability of providing a satisfactory treatment for patients suffering from the disease, which has been considered practically incurable. If the findings of Dr. Ely are substantiated several known methods of destroying the amoeba when it has invaded the body are known to exist and a cure may be effected through this.

The discovery is the result of long years of work in the Stanford laboratories on the subject of joint diseases.

Says East Must Be Taught of Japanese

YUBA CITY, Feb. 11.—Governor William D. Stephens in an address here yesterday declared the way to reach Congress on the Japanese issue in California is through the people of the Western states, who, he said, must be educated as to existing conditions.

The governor said he was positive President Harding would help solve the Japanese problem because when visiting the East following his election as governor he found Warren G. Harding, then a senator, most interested in the question.

The people of the state were urged by the governor when visiting the East or writing friends there to enlighten them on the Japanese question.

Governor Stephens spoke in favor of the war veteran bond issue, which will be on the ballot in the November election.

Deep Pits Used to Drain Flood Water

OAKDALE, Feb. 11.—Simple holes dug in the ground may carry off all the storm water and ultimately save the city $100,000. A test hole has been dug to the depth of ten feet, to the gravel strata. It is about a large pool of standing water was led and the manner in which it disappeared through the loose gravel was a revelation to the city officials. Now they believe it will operate equally well on a large scale and will proceed to dig other pits as experiments to test heavy rains. If they prove successful, no further action will be taken in the project to construct storm sewers, which engineers said would cost $100,000.

MERCED, Feb. 11.—Miss Flora A. Phillips, special Americanization teacher from the office of the state superintendent of schools, is here to begin her work in the county. She will remain for two months, visiting all the schools where the teachers have foreign children in the classes. The county school board will cooperate with her in every way, it announces.

RESINOL

Only in Sunday's Edition of Oakland Tribune Will These Features Appear

Washington, D. C., has, or had, a divorce mill. Alexandria, six miles down the Potomac from the nation's capital, put Reno to rout, and Ralph Burton, special Washington writer for the SUNDAY TRIBUNE, has furnished a descriptive narrative of its methods. Alexandria is steeped in revolutionary lore; in it stands Christ Church, of which George Washington, father of his country, was a vestryman. But now it is the target for criticism and its divorce mill is under federal investigation. Washingtonians have used Alexandria copiously and noisily for many months. Apart from the fact that "practically no time at all" was needed to obtain freedom from the bonds of matrimony, the low cost was a magnet. The market quotations varied from day to day, but always was low. One authority is quoted to the effect that the expense was "$200 and a night gown" and another put the figure at $150 and the cost of fixing.

Great Britain will ratify all the treaties made at the Washington conference, George N. Barnes, British parliamentary leader, cables from London. The pact, he says, represents a solid gain for the world; they will prevent war, which is much better than the making rules for the conduct of war. English public opinion, he says, finds much to commend in the fruits of the conference, much on which to congratulate President Harding.

To start the Geneva conference on March 5, the date decided upon at the Cannes party, would result in either a catastrophe or a farce, in the opinion of Andre Tardieu, former French high commissioner to America. The refusal of the United States to join the conference beclouds the already complicated situation, he adds, and there is no evidence, so far, of a common purpose among the nations. The passing of the American bill for the refunding of the allied debts to the United States, in notice, he declares, that there will be no reduction for the benefit of the European powers.

Germany is beginning to lose some of her high hopes over the economic conference at Geneva. The absence of the United States and the demands of France for an agenda so narrow that none of the real problems of Europe will be touched, as Norman Talmadge early learned the secret of beauty from her words, the speaker of the day all about it in the magazine section.

"The Lie That Sold a Million Songs" is the subject of George C. Vernon's latest special article, to appear in the magazine Sunday. There is a certain rich man in the public eye who never denies anything. Knowing this fact, an enterprising publicity man sent broadsheet a fake yarn about this man's interest in a certain song. Immediately newspapers all over the country "fell" for the story. The song became famous. Read all about it Sunday.

During the recent cold snap those residing in the coast counties thought the weather was getting to be like that of New England. It is not generally known that every year there is a large California winter. The TRIBUNE Magazine contains a page of photos of ice cutting operations on one of California's most famous rivers.

"Blame It On the Sun Spots," says Prof. Porta, speaking of the cold weather, the earth shakes, etc., and he proceeds to point with pride to predictions of his that just these very things were bound to happen when they did. He tells about it in the magazine.

When a New York heir to a million turns down his wife to live in free love and when a prominent suffragette refuses to take her husband's name when married it is time to ask a census of faddism, says Geraldine, speaking in the magazine. Then Jerry proceeds to pass out a word or two about "modernism."

"Her Wedding Journey" is one of the prettiest little stories that Eleanor H. Porter, author of "Pollyanna," ever wrote. It will be published in next Sunday's magazine.

Woman's Body Seen
In Bay Again Lost

SAN RAFAEL, Feb. 11.—Renewal of the search for the body of an unidentified woman reported having been seen floating in the bay off Sausalito by members of the crew of the ferryboat Tiburon yesterday, was begun today, following failure of the crew of the tugboat which the authorities have been working to solve the mystery surrounding the finding of a woman's body in an abandoned powder magazine at Fort Baker.

That a woman of slender build and about 25 years of age was the owner of the garments is the belief of Sheriff J. J. Keating of Marin county, who said today that he is of the opinion that the woman committed suicide.

Newman Postpones
Road Tree Planting

MODESTO, Feb. 11.—Weather conditions have forced postponement of the tree planting ceremony to have been held next Monday at Newman. At that time trees were to have been planted on each side of the Newman-Gustine highway for a distance of four miles.

At present water is standing along the road where the trees are to go. All the creeks are full, the Garces near Lodi, being the highest since 1893, according to the old settlers in the Newman district.

The tree ceremony was to have been unique even, and movie men were to have filmed it.

YOLD DOCTOR IS BEATEN IN SUIT OVER SHEEP DEAL

Court Holds Royles Knew the
to Protect Himself.

WOODLAND, Feb. 11.—Dr. J. T. Royles, for a quarter of a century a physician and rancher of Yolo county, lost in a suit here yesterday, brought against him by Fred Holmes for $5,533.75, being the balance due in a partnership deal in which Royles contracted with Holmes to purchase 400 head of alleged registered sheep. The deal involved about $2,000. The two men engaged in a partnership. After the first year Dr. Royles claimed that he had been defrauded, that the sheep were not pure bred or registered and could not be sold.

Then Holmes began suit in the superior court here to collect the balance above stated, due on a promissory note covering the price Royles was to pay for his share in the partnership. The case had been on trial in the superior court here for a week before a jury of ten men and two women. In seven minutes last night a verdict was returned in favor of Holmes, who sold the sheep to Royles, and against the latter, who gave the note. It was set out that Royles was long enough in ranching and stock business to know what best bred sheep and that, going into the business with Holmes, he should have known what he was doing.

Now the two men are engaged in litigation over an accounting of their partnership.

AIRPLANE FALLS; TWO ARE UNHURT

RIO VISTA, Feb. 11.—A rudder control wire, breaking at an altitude of over 3,000 feet, was the cause of an airplane plunging to earth about three miles west of this city.

The plane belongs to the Chambliss Company of San Francisco and was piloted by M. H. Murphy of that city. H. H. Hope, director of training, United States Veterans' Bureau of Sacramento, was a passenger. Neither was injured.

Pilot and passenger left Sacramento early yesterday afternoon on their way to San Francisco. Fighting heavy winds and air currents, practically all the time they were in the air, the control wire gave way near Rio Vista. The broken wire threw the plane into a tail spin, from which the pilot succeeded in extricating it. The plane went into two more tail spins despite the efforts of Murphy, who succeeded in straightening it out last time when only about ten feet above the ground. Landing hard, the propeller, wing and landing gear were broken. The plane was damaged, but these breakages and other damages done would total about $1,000.

Pilot and passenger returned yesterday afternoon to Sacramento. The owners of the plane are making arrangements to have it brought to San Francisco, where it will be repaired.

Virginia Fairfax was a maid to whom men pour libations. Just budding into a young womanhood of great beauty, with a spirited and sprightly disposition and powers of mind beyond her years, it was inevitable that men—good men and bad, always found in the Sunlight and Shadow-land of Filmdom, should seek her friendship.

The thrilling and romantic story of Virginia Fairfax is superbly told in "Sunlight and Shadow," the motion picture world, which will be published in the OAKLAND TRIBUNE beginning next Monday.

NEW EXHIBIT AT GALLERY SHOWN

By LAURA BRIDE POWERS.
William H. Clapp, director of the Oakland Art Gallery, is exhibiting a group of his paintings at the gallery by the lake.

But he doesn't know it—unless someone has gotten by his nose to tell him.

Up in his Piedmont home, the painter-director is ill with pneumonia—been ill since the twenty-sixth, when he was compelled to surrender and go to bed.

"Don't worry," said Miss Florence Lehrs, secretary, elevator-operator, and general factotum, when he left. "I'll look after everything."

Half an hour after he left, she was busy getting out of his studio in the rear of the gallery the beginnings of an exhibition—something the artist, in his overbearing modesty, would never consent to do.

And his artist-friends rallied to the cause, and by the week-end a comprehensive exhibition of the neo-impressionist was on the walls—one of the most interesting one-man shows that has been offered at the Municipal Gallery.

Mr. Clapp received his training in the Academy in Montreal and later in Paris, where he was a frequent exhibitor in the salons.

The current subject of the overgrowth of friendship and appreciation of nature—of art and accomplishment—embraces a group of monotypes expressive of his Cuban experiences. The tropic life with its glory of color afforded him a fine sweep for his esthetic indulgence.

Ten of his larger oils are presented by his self-appointed jury. "The Castle in Spain," is one of the best among the older things. A group of etchings—a few drypoints among them—completes the show.

A brilliant colorist, glowing in the play of sunlight on foliage, and on the figure in foliage, he has presented some nudes that place him high among the figure-painters of California—his "Lily-Pads" a case in point.

The exhibition will continue for two weeks, from 1 to 5 daily, Miss Lehrs a keen devotee for the show that could be presented only under the circumstance of fate.

When the painter returns, it is thought that his group of monotypes will have diminished the gold star hovering over three. There's hoping! Pneumonia's an ugly thing.

AGREEMENTS AND UNDERSTANDING THE REAL BASIS OF PEACE.

When President Harding appeared before the Senate yesterday and presented to that body for ratification the seven treaties which the government has signed recently, he laid before the Senate the completed statement of the work of the disarmament conference. It was a day of much gratification for the President, for he was able to make a report of important accomplishment and to call attention to acts which he confidently believes to be the foundation for permanent world peace and the resultant easing of the burdens of government throughout the earth.

Of the seven treaties submitted, the first was the five-power naval armament treaty, the second the submarine and poison gas treaty, the third the four-power Pacific treaty. The fourth and fifth were supplemental treaties to the four-power pact and the others related respectively to the general Far Eastern situation and to the Chinese tariff.

How the record contained in these agreements, and in other agreements to which the United States was not formally and directly a party, squares with the original program of the international conference which President Harding convoked may be easily comprehended from a brief reference to the agenda formulated and submitted to the several powers before the conference was called and the achievements of the conference:

Limitation of Naval Armament—Under which shall be discussed (A) Basis of limitation, (B) Extent, (C) Fulfillment. Capital ships limited in accordance with the 5-5-3 ratio and a ten year naval holiday declared; limitations made as to aircraft carriers; plans for scrapping prepared; provisions made for replacement and a new conference arranged for in the event of changed conditions; all contained in the five Power naval treaty. The conference, under this heading, failed to secure limitation of the number of submarines and auxiliary craft.

Rules for Control of New Agencies of Warfare—Rules made outlawing the submarine as an agency of attack against merchant ships. The Powers at the conference pledge themselves to observe at once this new rule of submarine warfare as among themselves and will ask the rest of the world to adhere. Established international law re-declared, requiring submarines to observe rule of visit and search. Declaration made against use of poison gas. New conference arranged for to devise new rules of future warfare.

Limitation of Land Armaments—Opposition of France resulted in failure to do anything under this heading, as in the case of the attempt to limit the number of submarines in proportion to the limitation of capital ships.

Questions Relating to China—First, Principles to be applied; second, Application. Subjects: (A) Territorial integrity; (B) Administrative integrity; (C) Open door, equality or commercial and industrial opportunity; (D) Concessions, monopolies or preferential economic privileges; (E) Development of railways, including plans relating to Chinese Eastern Railway; (F) Preferential railroad rates; (G) Status of existing commitments.

Principles to be applied to China were expressed in the four Root points, which make a general declaration of abandonment of spheres of influence, respect for the territorial integrity of China, a declaration of eventual abandonment of extraterritoriality, eventual tariff autonomy, declaration in favor of the open door, etc. Under this heading may be considered the four Power Pacific treaty, pledging the signatory Powers to respect each other's territory and to confer whenever the peace of the Pacific region is threatened. In connection with the Far Eastern settlements, Article 19 of the naval treaty delimits regions where fortifications shall remain in status quo, while the four Power Pacific treaty calls for the abrogation of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance.

Commissions named to consider tariff and extraterritoriality. Arrangements made to withdraw foreign troops and foreign postoffices; the open door and territorial integrity stressed in various resolutions and in the nine Power treaty relative to China.

Shantung returned to China by Japan and teeth extracted from twenty-one demands, leaving only railroad and port extensions of lease to Japan in Manchuria. Chinese, Japanese and American declarations clarify Japan's withdrawal of claim for economic superiority in Manchuria. Arrangement made to list concessions and commitments in China. Pledge secured from China not to exact preferential railroad rates, and Chinese Eastern Railroad to be disposed of through diplomatic negotiations.

Siberia—The conference conformed to the spirit of moral trusteeship for Russia. Declarations were made by Ambassador Shidehara for Japan, pledging the withdrawal of Japan from Siberia and Northern Sakhalin as soon as possible. This statement was analyzed and repeated by Secretary of State Hughes as a matter of record. Secretary Hughes made the position of the United States clear and left no loophole for the Japanese Government to bring about failure to fulfill its pledge through ambiguity. Japan pledges herself not to interfere in Siberian domestic politics.

Mandated Islands—This question was disposed of by arrangement reached by the United States and Japan settling the controversy over Yap. Electrical Communications in the Pacific—Complete control of radio service in China placed in the hands of the Chinese Government, with a general declaration against monopolistic control of radio concessions.

THE TRIBUNE believes that all these treaties should be ratified at once, without any attempt on the part of the Senate at substantial reservations. They are documents of understanding and agreement. Whatever may be our hopes, limitation of armaments and naval holidays will not alone insure the peace. At the threat of war or with the desire to go to war, this country can build in each of a score of shipyards submarines at the rate of one a week, a destroyer every thirty days, a battleship in 120 days. We have no reason to expect that other great nations will not be able to do as well.

Limitation of armaments without international agreement for the respect of every nation's legitimate interests will prove futile. Limitation of armaments is the form, agreements and cordial relations the content, of provisions for the peace.

If the Senate should refuse to approve the achievements of the recent conference and incorporate its decisions into the national policy, America will be set back 100 years in the view of the world and in her own self-respect. It is unthinkable that such a tragedy should come to pass.

NO LONGER "DRUNKEN SAILORS."

A communication has been received signed "Just Sailors," which expresses a good-tempered protest against the use, in the story about Frank Mayo by Mildred Morris, of the phrase "drunken sailors." If this letter had been signed by the correct names of the writers, and it were possible to identify them as genuine, the letter would be used just as it is written. But inasmuch as it is anonymous, we will merely restate some of the sentiments it contains.

"Just sailors" write that of course men in the navy read the newspapers and agree with Mr. Mayo in his opinion of the undesirables in the moving picture business. But why should he, they ask, put these undesirables in a class with sailors. "There is no doubt good and bad in the best of all of us, barring none, but our better self protests against being classed as drunken sailors. Think how we must feel when the name of our calling is brought into direct contact with the undesirables he mentions."

"Like drunken sailors" is a simile that has been handed down from a period when grog was among the daily ration of the men of the ships. That was many decades ago, long before the advent of the Daniels regime in the United States navy. It probably originated from the habits of men of the commerce carriers and not among the enlisted men of the world's navies.

And because it is an old term, and perhaps because writers do not have other apt phrases at their command, it is still used, with lamentable indiscretion. It is a phrase which should be discarded. Popular conceptions to the contrary, it has been a fact for fifty years there is less insobriety among the enlisted men of the American navy than among any similar class of men in or out of the service. The phrase always has been more or less libelous and unjust.

Now that the navy has been through several years of prohibition, it is indisputably the soberest aggregation of men to be found anywhere. Man for man, the men in the navy's uniform are to be credited with finer conduct than any other body of men of like number.

It is no longer correct or appropriate to refer to "drunken sailors." That phrase, like many another connected with the use of intoxicants, should disappear from our vocabulary.

The town trustees of Redding have acquired a large still for the concoction of forbidden spirituous liquors. They are not decided as to what to do with it, but if the town is in need of revenue they can dispose of it at a fair profit.

The Flying Fish.
We'd been out from Pirsoo forty days.
A heading for the Paraguay;
An English chap was 'board our bark.
A high-brow duke, just on a lark.

Now him an' me slept in one bunk
(Like packed-up chinks in a coolie junk).
Above, a porthole gave us light.
But not much on this certain night.

Old Brit he ups an' ope's the port.
Then jumps back with a sudden snort.
But he keeps mum and piles in bed
I'd seen a fly-fish hit his head!

Then in a while there comes a swish
And plunk! there lands another fly.
Right plop against old Brit's big eyes
His wife is gone—he nearly cries.

"They's ghosts!" he hollers. "Naw," says I.
"A little fishy wants to fly."
An' then they starts to fan the air
Around Brit's head an' in his hair.

He gives one yip, an' off he goes.
Up on deck without no clothes.
An' after that the bunk was mine.
While Brit, he said the bold was fine.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 11.—I have visited the police station where is kept the famous carpet and the famous girl. With each passing hour a new suspect is placed upon this carpet and with each hour the police begin, all over again, a "grueling examination." There is one in Hollywood today who can claim to any position among his fellows unless he has been grilled most gruelingly. Outside of this grill room it is more difficult to find a policeman than a suspect. They have run to a convenient cover furnished by the united society of film magnates. In the evening, as I sit here writing this only true account of the famous case, I can hear the sh-sh-sh-ing of the these magnates and their corps of agents, a shushing that is proving very effective. Over the "wave" of sh-sh, one might say: has come a wave of shish. No man dare say his soul is his own if that soul is under contract to the movies. I am determined to solve the puzzle—but first I shall find it.

SPIRIT OF STATE PRESS

There is perhaps in all America no more favorable region than California in which to develop a new system by which the people may be dispersed in small settlements that permit enjoyment of all the advantages of country life. Especially is this true in the San Joaquin valley, now sparsely populated, but which will eventually be the dwelling place of millions. Life in the small towns and cities of this vast district may readily be made so attractive in the matter of culture and social advantages that a declaration of independence would be possible so far as such places as San Francisco and Los Angeles are concerned.—Bakersfield Californian.

THE DREAMER.
The road lay straight before him, but the by-ways smiled at him
And the scented breezes called him to the forests cool and dim.
And the song birds' happy chorus seemed to lure him further on.
'Twas a day of wondrous pleasure—but the day was quickly gone.

He could not resist the laughter and the purring of a brook
Any more than gray old sages can resist some dusty book.
And though stern-faced duty bade him march the highway straight ahead,
"The trees are better company than busy men," he said.

We wondered at his dreaming and his wanderings far astray,
But we were counting values by the gold and silver way.
And sometimes as I saw him gazing idly at the sky,
I fancied he had pleasures of a sort I couldn't buy.

I fancy he saw something in the clouds above the trees
Which the gold and glory seeker passes by and never sees,
And I think he gathered something from the woods and running streams
Which is just as good as money to the man of many dreams.

The Latest News About
The Misunderstood Calory

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
Commissioner of Health,
New York City.

No discussion of food values would be complete without reference to the "calory." It must be conceded, however, that the calory does not hold the important place in the food world it occupied a few years ago.

In some restaurants the menu card indicates the caloric value of each serving of food. By selecting such foods as make a sum total of eight or nine hundred calories you are supposed to have given yourself an ideal meal.

What is a calory?
A calory is the standard for measuring heat production. As the yard is a standard for measuring length, and the quart is a standard for measuring liquids, the calory is the standard for measuring heat energy.

The amount of heat necessary to raise the temperature of two quarts of water one degree Fahrenheit is called "one calory."

"Food taken into the body acts just as fuel does in a furnace. It burns and generates heat. When it burns in the body it produces just as much heat as it would if it were burned in a stove. So food energy is considered the equivalent of heat energy, and is measured in terms of calories.

Carbohydrates and protein are about equal in calories per ounce, while fat contains about twice as much as either of the other foods. This is not surprising, because we all know that fat or oil will make a very hot fire.

An average helping of lean beef weighs about three ounces. This amount of lean beef contains 80 calories in protein and 20 calories in fat.

A portion of bacon weighs about one-half an ounce. It contains seven calories in protein and 93 in fat.

An ounce of sugar contains 100 calories in carbohydrates.

An egg contains 36 calories in protein and 64 in fat.

Six ounces of milk contain 61 calories in fat, 22 in protein and 34 in carbohydrates.

About 100 calories are supplied by an ounce of honey, cheese, crackers, biscuits, ripe olives, a cereal or a sandwich of any sort, or by a baked potato, a small chop or a slice of bread.

Theoretically, the average man requires every day food containing 2500 calories. If he works at hard, physical labor, he needs more.

Outmeal with cream and sugar gives you 400 calories. Coffee with cream and sugar, 400 calories. Buttered toast at least 200 calories. This would be considered a small breakfast by most persons, yet it totals more in calories—1000—than the body requires at one of the three meals.

If you will study the caloric contents of this sample breakfast you will see at once how much better off you would be to omit the coffee, and, in its place, to take half a pint of good milk. Then you will have room for a couple of eggs, and still keep your intake at about a thousand calories.

Ordinarily, the proportions of food required are 10 per cent of protein, 25 per cent of fat, and 65 per cent of carbohydrates. In calories this would be 250 of protein, about 600 of fat, and 1650 of carbohydrates.

Give the calory system a little thought, apply it for a day or two to your eating, and after you have determined whether you are eating too much or too little, and have "balanced" your diet accordingly, forget all about calories.

Don't ruin your mealtime pleasure by eating according to rule. Your friends will desert you if you mutter "calories" all the time at the table.

Tomorrow we will talk about vitamins, a more recent arrival in the land of dietetics.

Speaking of ice, although the attitude of the Phalaris is a dangerous one, the writer was struck last week with a certain precipitous hill in Boston. THREE CHINESE TONGMEN FREED

Because a jury in Superior Judge St. Sure's court could not believe the witnesses for either side, three Chinese tongmen are free today following their second trial for the alleged murder of another tongman, Wong Wah Yung. The men who were acquitted are Lee Kim, Sam Lo and Chin Fong of the Sui Yung Tong. The slain man was a member of the Bing Kongs.

The jury verdict followed declarations of Attorney Oliver D. Hamlin Jr. that the five Chinese witnesses for the prosecution had agreed more minutely than would be humanly possible if they were telling the truth. Members of the jury said afterward that they had believed neither those witnesses nor those for the defense, and so had resolved their doubts in favor of the defendants.

Wong Wah Yung was shot and killed in a Chinese gambling house at 320 Eighth street last June. Testimony showed that the police had failed to take him into custody until he had been taken off to search for holiness along the railroad tracks, leaving Chinatown unwatched for the time. The first trial of the three Sui Yung tongmen resulted in a disagreement, the jury voting eleven to one for acquittal.

EQUAL RIGHTS AMENDMENT IS DISCUSSED

Should women be permitted by constitutional amendment to retain their own name following marriage? Shall the child take the father's or mother's name or have a choice between them?

The questions arose in Oakland, Calif., at a Civic League of Women Voters yesterday when Mrs. William Kent, director of the National Woman's party, presented to the members the content of the proposed twentieth amendment to the constitution of the United States, popularly referred to as the Equal Rights bill.

This piece of legislation, sponsored by the Woman's party and which is creating a widespread discussion throughout the country, is aimed at the removal of all political, legal and civil disabilities of women on account of sex, nationally and in the separate states. The text of the measure has not yet been definitely decided. It would give the same right of choice of residence and name to women as is given to men, along with many other privileges now conceded to be held by men alone.

WOMEN RETAIN "MISS"

"Many women now are keeping their own name, even retaining the 'Miss' after marriage," declared Mrs. Kent. "Admittedly, many women will continue to desire to take their husband's name. It ought to be recognized, however, that women should be given the right to retain their name at birth, and the amendment which they have attained under it totally disappear." She admitted no provision had been considered for the name which the child should take.

Mrs. Kent asserted, "They are too eager for protection and assistance."

A bill covering equal rights will be introduced in the State Legislature.

Authorities were cited to show that passage of the amendment would not affect the present laws relating to women in industry, particularly the eight-hour and minimum wage laws. "It is not the movement to declare that with the adoption of the proposed legislation such laws as exist for protection of the woman would become null and void."

Opposition to the proposed equal rights bill took the form of twenty questions read by Mrs. E. P. Rowell. Among the interrogations were:

"Will husbands need to continue to support wives?"

"Can deserting husbands be brought back to support wife and child?"

"Will the widow's pension be affected or will a widower's pension be created?"

"Will women be subject to conscription?"

"What will become of the Mann act?"

CONTRIVERSY PROMISED.

Mrs. William Palmer Lewis, State chairman of American Citizenship, and Mrs. H. N. Herick, State chairman of legislation, presented the program of the California Civic League of Women Voters.

Years of legal controversy to determine the status of women is foreseen by Mrs. Katherine Edson, executive secretary of the Industrial Welfare Commission, should the proposed twentieth Federal amendment be adopted. Mrs. Edson this week addressed the Business and Professional Women's club. She quoted opinions of judges and attorneys to support her view that passage of equal rights would mean loss of equal rights in child support, including mothers' pension, eight-hour law and minimum wage.

DOPE HABIT FORMED UP IN SIBERIA

Former Soldier Is Arrested, in Berkeley for Begging; Sent to Institution for Year to Be Weaned From Narcotics

BERKELEY, Feb. 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—Begging that he be cured of the narcotics habit which he contracted two years ago while with the American Expeditionary Forces in Siberia, Matthew Conway, 28 years old, was arrested last night by Officer Frank Waterbury while begging funds in Berkeley.

This morning Conway was sentenced to spend a year at a state institution where he will undergo the cure. Because of his condition he has not seen his mother since his return from Siberia, he told Officer Waterbury.

"I can't face her like this and I want to go home," he said.

Conditions in Siberia were so bad that many soldiers became narcotic addicts, Conway declared. He says the habit was contracted by him because of insomnia, his first bit of dope being given to him by a sergeant in his company.

Conway's parents reside in the East. He has not informed them of his plight, and says he will not go home until he is cured. At the time of his arrest, Conway had been begging several dollars from residents on California street, he declared that the use of morphine had broken his health for work.

Moore told the court that he earned $4 a week and was willing to pay the fine.

"Your family needs the money more than the city does," said Judge Smith.

'Goo,' Says Baby, And Roy Taylor Gets Probation

"G'wan 'bed!" ordered his honor. "Cool!" chorled "his nibs." All of which meant that Police Judge Edward Tyrell decided to temper justice with a large measure of mercy in the case of Roy T. Taylor, accused of automobile theft.

Last month Mrs. Taylor died leaving him an 18-month-old baby; he moved to his wife's relatives; found the sailing not smooth; appealed to the superior court and got the custody of the child and then was arrested for attempting to steal an automobile.

Today he asked for probation with the baby in his arms, and after a short and unintelligible conversation between judge and baby Taylor was sent out on his own recognizance on probation to "put the baby to bed."

NATIONS' COURT TO MEET FEB. 15

THE HAGUE, Feb. 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—Determination of what shall constitute international law will be one of the most important functions of the permanent court of justice, set up under the auspices of the League of Nations, which is to hold its first public meeting in the Peace Palace February 15. This was made clear by Judge Max Huber, a member of the court, in an interview with an Associated Press correspondent, his first public declaration on the subject since his arrival here.

Judge Huber emphasized that the new court lacked all-around compulsory jurisdiction and could act only when the litigant states agreed to submit their disputes to it. To this end he said it was essential that public opinion bring pressure to bear on the parliaments of the several countries so that the latter would adopt this course of settlement.

Lincoln's Birthday Observed in City Hall

The lower portions of the city hall will be decorated on Monday for Lincoln's birthday. The eleventh floor and all the other provinces of the school department will conduct business as usual. The schools will remain open.

One of the unusual celebrations of Lincoln's birthday will be held at Alameda school, which will stage a "rail splitter" pageant next Thursday, and a "cherry tree" playlet to celebrate Washington's birthday. February 16 was chosen as an appropriate date between both holidays.

15 FIREMEN OVERCOME IN BIG S.F. BLAZE

Loss Estimated at From $100,000 to $200,000 Sustained As Blaze Sweeps Electrical Plant at 725 Mission Street

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 11.—Fire which partially destroyed the plant of the Thomas Ray Company, electrical fixtures, 725 Mission street, today caused damage variously estimated at from $100,000 to $200,000. Fifteen firemen were overcome with smoke during the progress of the blaze and were treated by the Emergency hospital steward at the scene.

Three alarms were turned in for the blaze which had gained great headway in the basement by the time the first apparatus reached the scene. Smoke poured forth in huge black columns, making it difficult for the firemen to combat the blaze. Water was pumped in from a score of hydrants and a half dozen chemical engines were used in an effort to quench the flames. The loss has not been determined.

New Accounting Method Announced

A complete new method for accounting in the harbor department was announced today by Harbor Engineer Ralph Deane, to simplify the financial accounting and help to make the various cost items of harbor work more understandable.

Hereafter all jobs will be numbered, whether dredging, pile-driving or laying rock fills.

The cost of each job will be watched, and the total will be known as soon as the job is finished.

The time of surveyors and office help will be apportioned to the various jobs, to estimate the cost of overhauling.

The system, in vogue with all big construction companies, will be made effective and retroactive from January 1.

Family At Funeral; Burglars Loot Home

ALAMEDA, Feb. 11.—While A. W. Koerber and family were attending the funeral of his mother, yesterday afternoon, burglars entered and robbed his home at 1815 Santa Clara avenue, of jewelry. Koerber is a fuel dealer of Alameda. He discovered the robbery upon his return home late last night.

Entrance had been obtained by breaking a rear window. They had taken their time, apparently, and had thoroughly ransacked the house. Koerber and the police are checking up on the things which were stolen.

Contracts Influenza Guarding Prisoner

Policeman C. F. Agard is in the County Hospital suffering from influenza, which, it is said, he contracted while guarding a prisoner. McCurdy is in a serious condition at the hospital and cannot be removed. McCurdy was guarding Charles Jones, colored, who was shot early Monday morning by Policeman Charles Appleford Jr., as he was attempting to enter a home in West Oakland. When he refused to stop the officer fired one shot which struck him in the leg.

Waiter, Out of Work, Commits Suicide

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 11.—After being out of work for a year, the result of quitting his position at the Palace hotel because, he said, a guest insulted him, Herbert Bartholomew, 45 years old, committed suicide in his flat at 937 E. Howard street today. His companion and friend, William Schwander, also a waiter, found him dead with a tube attached to the gas jet in his mouth. He had been suffering from mental trouble for some time.

September Morn In February Is Puzzle to Police

ALAMEDA, Feb. 11.—Did some twentieth century Lady Godiva repeat her famous promenade in this city last night?

While there is no report of untoward events during the evening, the police are puzzling over the discovery made in the Neptune Beach station.

There an inquisitive and enterprising policeman found scattered about the station a green and white bathing suit, a jersey skirt, a white waist, a cincham apron and a pair of white kid shoes.

"And what did the lady wear when she left?" asked Policeman Richard Britt, who made the discovery.

CREATION SECRETS MAY BE SOLVED

PASADENA, Calif., Feb. 11.—(Creation of cosmic crucibles similar to the new theory of stars out of which primordial matter is developed, is planned here by utilization of high potentials upwards of a million volts in a series of laboratories building here under direction of Dr. Robert A. Millikan, who isolated the electron. One of the units of the laboratories was just dedicated in opening of the Norman Bridge Laboratory of Physics. The final unit soon to be erected will be the electrical laboratory.

A trinity of sciences, physics, chemistry and astronomy will, according to Dr. Millikan, unite in an effort to penetrate the deepest of mysteries, the creation of the earth. The famous astrophysical laboratory on Mount Wilson of the Carnegie Institution, of which Dr. George E. Hale is director, the Gates chemical laboratory of the California Institute of Technology, of which Dr. Arthur A. Noyes is director, and the new physics laboratory of which Dr. Millikan is director, will approach the subject from their respective fields.

"A part of the program from the standpoint of physics," said Dr. Millikan, "involves the use of tremendously high potentials which furnish the only possible means of bringing to bear the forces of the surface of the earth such enormously concentrated energies as it is presumably subjected to in the stars."

"The facilities which are offered here for the study of these problems are perhaps unequalled anywhere in the world," he said, referring to the three laboratories.

Girl Recovering From Auto Crash

BERKELEY, Feb. 11.—Miss Sadie R. Brown, employee of the First National Bank, is recovering from severe cuts about the face and hands sustained yesterday noon when the car in which she was riding with Miss Polly Young, another employee of the bank, was struck by a delivery car driven by Howard Davis, high school student of 1214 San Pablo avenue.

The accident occurred at Addison and Milvia streets when the two young women were returning from luncheon at their home, 1938 Delaware street. The windshield of Miss Brown's car was broken by the crash. The glass flying into the faces of the two young women, Miss Brown's injuries were treated at the emergency hospital.

CHARITY BALL NETS $1000 FOR IDLE MEN

Disagreeable Weather Reduces Attendance at Hotel Claremont Last Night; Road Work Prevented By Rain

With many tickets still unaccounted for, more than $1000 was realized from the charity ball at the Hotel Claremont last night, according to Mrs. W. G. Mooney, a member of the committee in charge.

The money will be turned over to the city's emergency employment and relief committee for distribution among the needy of the Eastbay district.

Several hundred persons attended the ball last night, but the crowd was not as great as the committee hoped for, according to announcement this morning.

In addition to the sale of tickets for the dance, the fund was enlarged by a raffle of food and clothing and the sale of sandwiches and candies.

Inconvenience of the weather has resulted in further suffering for the unemployed, according to W. S. Goodrich, president of the Municipal Woodyard.

The men usually employed for two days a week on the city roads and the municipal golf links have been unable to get out in the rain, and as a result their source of revenue has been entirely cut off, according to Goodrich.

In connection with the unemployment situation, the State Public Employment Bureau of this city has issued a report showing that jobs have been furnished to 1131 persons and the bureau throughout the State furnished 9229 jobs. Of this number 718 were men and the balance women.

San Francisco furnished 1730 positions; Los Angeles 4454; Fresno, 998; San Jose, 312; Sacramento, 312, and Stockton, 201.

MY FAVORITE STORIES by

IRVIN S. COBB

A Lover of Statistics.

There was a seance on—a regular seance, with a trance medium and a black cheesecloth cabinet and a mysterious table rapper and a ghostly guitar picker and a smell of frying cabbage floating in from the back of the house and everything orthodox, like that. The medium was a stout lady in black, who was raising a brown mustache and whose controls took those liberties with the English language which seemingly is permitted in a realm where there is neither space nor time—nor grammar. She came from Brooklyn, where so many of those who take in spiritualism for a living do come from, but at the time of which I speak she was playing the provinces, as the troupers say. The audience was of fairish size. Amid the throng sat a half-grown youth from about three miles out on R. F. D. No. 3. He was attending his first spiritualistic seance. And he was being suitably impressed. As manifestation succeeded manifestation, his eyes popped and his ears twitched. If he had had gills, beyond doubt they would have opened and closed.

Presently the medium's husband, who acted, so to speak, as ring-master, desired to know whether there was yet another present desirous of having speech with some dear departed one. If so Madame would undertake to establish liaison.

This was the cue for the youth. He mustered courage to stutter an embarrassed plea. He wished to have speech with the shade of his late father.

After a proper wait there were sounds in the cabinet and through the darkness there spoke the tones of one of seeming hoary age.

"Is that you, my son?" asked the voice.

"Yes, paw, this here is me," answered the youth.

"Was there any questions you wished to ask me concernin' my present station?" continued the accommodating voice.

The boy thought a moment. Then:

"Where are you, Paw?" he inquired with simple directness.

"Heaven, my son."

"Air you an angel, Paw?"

"Oh, yes, my son."

"An angel with wings and a harp and everything?"

The answer was somewhat muffled but seemingly in the affirmative.

The son considered a moment. Then he had an inspiration.

"Say, Paw," he demanded sagely, "what do you measure from tip to tip?"

McEvoy's COMIC STRIP

How I Raised My Parents.

By an Ex-Child.

(Chapter VI.)

I TEACH MY PARENTS UNSELFISHNESS.

My parents were curiously selfish, so I early decided I would have to eradicate this fault and substitute a more noble emotion. It is a child's duty, I said, to broaden and uplift his parents. Many children do not understand this, but I do, and I shall not shirk my duty.

One way to teach my parents unselfishness, I said, is to force them to take care of some helpless creature. So I went out and brought in the most helpless creature I could find. This happened to be a very old, discouraged and dilapidated dog. He hardly held together until I got him home, and then he seemed to come practically all apart right in the middle of the living-room. Naturally my parents were not so pleased with this, but I forced them to take care of him.

Thus highly encouraged, I went out and by great good fortune found three cats—all just about to be blessed with posterity. In practically no time there were at least twenty-five or thirty little cats all over the place. My parents tried to get rid of some of them, but I raised such a vigorous protest they finally gave up in despair.

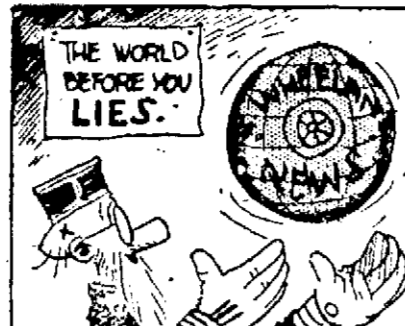

Taking care of this assorted menagerie taught my parents a great deal about animal life, unselfishness, and trained their humanitarian instincts.

After I had installed the cats, I brought home rabbits, birds, angle-worms, bugs of all kinds, mice, spiders, and, by almost marvelous good fortune, I succeeded in getting a small but active goat.

Now that I am an ex-child, I can look back upon this period of my life with some pride and satisfaction. What I did for my parents in that brief but eventful period! What they learned through my tireless efforts! What, indeed! They have often told me they can never repay me, no matter how long they live.

MEN FIGHT FOR
LIVES IN DEATH
VALLEY BLIZZARDMitchell Brothers of S. F.
Nearly Perish; Wander for Days.

MOJAVE, Feb. 11.—Battling for several days with a snow storm in Death Valley, and unable to find habitation where they could obtain food and shelter, John Mitchell, boiler inspector, of San Francisco, and his brother, George Mitchell, were brought out of the desert yesterday by a rescue party.

Overtaken by a blizzard, the two men became separated. They were blinded by the storm and were unable to give a coherent account of their experiences yesterday.

George Mitchell, who was the first found, had his feet frozen. He was taken to Keeler, Cal., by Jack Press, a prospector. According to the Hartford Steam Boiler and Inspection company, by whom the two brothers were employed, both were thoroughly familiar with Death Valley and were on an inspection trip when caught in the storm.

Together they left Keeler in an automobile, which broke down in the desert just as the storm swept down on them. They walked twenty miles to Stovepipe Springs for water, planning to go from there to Rhyolite. They became exhausted and started back to Keeler.

The storm developed and the snow became blinding. They found that they were walking in circles. Once they thought they saw a house. George went on while his brother waited, exhausted. George failed to find the house, and when he returned he could not find his brother. George spent two days trying to locate John, and then collapsed. When he awoke he was in a snowbank near the Minetta mine. He crawled to the mine, where Press found him.

A posse was then sent out in search of John Mitchell, under the leadership of the sheriff of Inyo county. The posse found him wandering in a dazed state. He had had no food for five days.

SCHOOL BUILDING
PROBLEM SERIOUS

A desperate race between the rains and the school department to get the school buildings repaired before the school opens, according to school officials, with the taxpayers of Oakland vitally affected by the outcome of the race.

According to Business Manager of the Board of Education, Norval Cook, of the board of education, four or five schools have had few repairs of a permanent nature in the last three years, as there is no representation for old buildings. Consequently, the condition of these schools is now termed "precarious," and becoming worse with each inch of rainfall.

Some of the schoolrooms in these old buildings, it is admitted, are in a patched state, which just prevents actual flooding, but how long they will last is a question.

"If we have to rush a few thousand dollars of emergency repairs to these schools," says Rice, "it can easily be seen that our funds will be depleted by just that much. We are hoping and praying for clear weather."

The Cole school is one example. A roof blew off the Cole school during the Christmas storm, and a temporary patch had hardly made up for the damage. Other schools are in about the same fix, it is said.

"Hereafter," say Rice and Cook, "the school department should have an annual depreciation fund to keep up repairs on old buildings. The buildings have been allowed to run down. They must be kept up. Any other policy is extravagant."

MYSTERIOUS SHOT
HITS MAN'S LEG

Antone Furtado, a clerk, was shot by a stranger as he was on his way home. The shooting took place near East Fourteenth street and Eighty-fifth avenue.

Furtado told the police that when he got off the street car late last night he noticed two men standing near a tree. When he was within a short distance of the men he heard two shots. He kept on walking until he reached his home at 8909 B street. He told the police that he did not realize he had been shot until he discovered the blood on his leg. He was taken to the Emergency hospital, where he was treated for a flesh wound in the leg. He was unable to tell the police if the men fired at him or if he was shot by mistake.

Dr. Landon To Tell
Of Pastor's Problems

When the Oakland Ministerial Union meets at the Y. W. C. A. on Tuesday noon it will be addressed by Dr. W. H. Landon, president of the San Francisco Theological Seminary. He will speak to the local ministers on "The Problems of the Modern Ministry." According to Dr. Landon, the problems which the minister is forced to meet are increasing each day and in his talk on Tuesday he will discuss some of these problems.

Did Anne Rutledge die of a broken heart? For the first time the story of the excellent of Abraham Lincoln tells the inside history of the famous courtship that ended so unhappily in the death of Anne. This little sister of Anne, with whom Lincoln once camped in their Springfield home, is living in California. "Lincoln As a Lover" is the subject of an article by Katherine Wheeler in next Sunday's TRIBUNE Magazine. In which she tells the story of the little story.

Oppenheim Case Is Submitted to Court

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 11.—The case of former Police Judge Oppenheim, charged with driving away without rendering aid, after his automobile had injured a woman, has been taken under advisement. The woman whom Oppenheim's car is said to have struck is Mrs. Virginia Knowles, 1276 Forty-fifth avenue. The accident occurred at Stanyan and Fell streets on January 23. Mrs. Knowles when she took the stand before Judge O'Brien yesterday said she did not care to press the charge. She said that Oppenheim had handed her his card after the accident.

Suspect Chased 10,000
Miles, Then Jailed

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 11.—Chow Chiuoskie, said to have committed a double murder at Prince Rupert last summer, is on his way back to that place in the custody of a member of the Canadian Northwest mounted police. He was caught in Mexico by Sergeant M. J. Stevens after a chase of 10,000 miles. Stevens arrived here yesterday with his prisoner. Stevens will remain here a few days. STORM MOVING
INLAND; FAIR
WEATHER DUETerritory Adjacent to Stockton
Is Inundated; Flood Perils Santa Ana.

If the predictions of the weather bureau hold, motorists who have had their ears anchored down all week can take them out for an airing tomorrow. The storm of the past few days has moved inland and is now central over the plateau region, and fair weather is predicted for tonight and tomorrow.

Many of the roads and trails, however, are under water. Alameda creek last night went on a rampage and flooded the roadway through Niles canyon. Precautions were taken to prevent the railroad ties along the Western Pacific railroad at Niles from being undermined by the high water. Today the water was reported to be receding, but the Niles canyon road will not be in good shape for several days. All highways measured 71 inches; Sacramento, 62; San Francisco, 50; San Jose, 72; San Luis Obispo, 114. Other places along the coast give: Boise, 01; Kallispell, 10; Roseburg, 23; Portland, 25; Reno, 102; Los Angeles, 2 and Red Bluff, 20.

On the last 24 hours, ending at 8 a. m. today, the rainfall in Oakland measured 7.1 inches; Sacramento, 6.2; San Francisco, 5.0; San Jose, 7.2; San Luis Obispo, 11.4. Other places along the coast give: Boise, 0.1; Kallispell, 1.0; Roseburg, 2.3; Portland, 2.5; Reno, 10.2; Los Angeles, 2 and Red Bluff, 2.0.

TRACKS UNDER WATER.

Territory adjacent to Stockton is again inundated by flood waters from the mountains.

The Central California Traction company reports 1300 feet of track under water and traffic tied up between Stockton and Lodi through the cave-in of embankments.

This is the second time within two days that washouts in that neighborhood have occurred, crippling the traction company and causing tremendous damage to the surrounding property.

The farming district north of the government diverting canal which keeps Stockton dry during high water, is now under many feet of water in some places.

FIGHT TO SAVE HOMES.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 11.—Working with feverish haste in the overflow waters of the Santa Ana river to save their homes and livestock, more than a score of ranchers living in the Tule River district south of Santa Ana, today dug deep channels to release flood waters which covered an area three miles square. A crew of twenty men was put to work by the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce at a danger point a mile and a half north of the town of Olive. It was feared that the temporary levees constructed there after the last flood might give way and permit the Santa Ana river to sweep down on Anaheim.

Home Marooned
By Clogged Gutter

SAN LEANDRO, Feb. 11.—An S. O. S. call was sent to the city marshal's office yesterday by residents of the corner of Davis and Orchard streets, stating that they were marooned in their homes. An investigation showed a culvert had clogged with leaves, preventing water from running in the gutters. The culvert was transformed into a small lake which threatened basements and gardens. Thrasher Park playground was practically flooded by the heavy rains. San Leandro creek, which two days ago a mere trickle of water, was changed over night into a swift flowing river.

Complaints as to overflowing and obstructed gutters came into the marshal's office during the day, and the street department was kept on the jump remedying the situation.

Officer Follows
His Nose; Finds
Man With Flask

Police Officer W. L. Gallagher now holds the official title of "booze sniffer" in the Oakland police department. Brother police officers say that Gallagher can smell anything over one-half of one per cent several blocks away.

This morning Gallagher's "sniffer" was working at its best. He noticed a man acting suspiciously at the corner of Seventh street and Broadway. When the man saw the officer approaching he took a flask out of his pocket and broke it in the street.

The officer arrested the man, who gave his name as W. R. Smith. He was charged with violating Ordinance 938, which prohibits the breaking of glass on the street.

Gallagher's report states that the bottle contained Jackass brandy. Smith was fined $5 today by Police Judge Smith for violating the ordinance.

Gives Program

SAN LEANDRO, Feb. 11.—American Legion Post No. 117 of San Leandro held its first banquet of the present season last night at the Odd Fellows' hall. The affair was well attended by both local and visiting members. The early part of the evening was taken up with the regular business meeting, following which the banquet was held.

Short speeches were delivered concerning plans made for the post and intentions to enlarge and begin an extensive membership drive in the near future. J. A. Mitchell, post commander of Hayward Post No. 68, and Frank Bernard, also of Hayward Post, were present.

So swift are the strides of modern mechanical science that it keeps the public mind busy keeping up with developments. One of the new things of the year has been the development of wireless voice communication. "Chatting With the Wilderness" Seth Bailey in next Sunday's TRIBUNE magazine tells how the TRIBUNE message bearer in the Hotel Oakland office speaks out nightly to her in the north woods and on the desert and to captains at sea, bulleting the day's news.

NEW MARKET TO OCCUPY BLOCK
WILL BE BUILTNorman de Vaux Announces
Plan for Structure to Be Erected on Telegraph.

A market which is to occupy the entire frontage on the west side of Telegraph avenue between Nineteenth and Williams streets, and which will extend 200 feet into the block toward San Pablo avenue, is to be built in the near future, according to an announcement from Norman de Vaux, owner of the property.

The building will cost $200,000, and represents a total expenditure of half a million, according to de Vaux, who is president and general manager of the Chevrolet Company of California.

The market is to be modern in every detail, the exterior will be two stories in height and will be of black and gold pattern finished over steel and concrete construction. The architecture will be of Italian renaissance style. The market will be leased to a corporation.

STORES AND BOOTHS.

The plans of the architect, Maury I. Diggs, provide for a combination of stores and market booths. The street frontage will consist of stores, which will be open at the rear on the main court of the market inside. Large decorative entrances to the market will be at each of the four corners of the building.

Above the main auditorium, or market place, will be the second floor, whereon will be cafes, restaurants for men and women and playrooms for children.

Actual work on the building is expected to begin on March 1. The property is now being cleared. Officials of the company, who will operate the market, can not be announced at this time, according to de Vaux. The directors, de Vaux said today, will be well-known East-bay business men. There will be no stock for sale to the public.

PROVIDE PARKING.

It is the plan of de Vaux to give to the people of the Eastbay the latest and most up-to-date market place that can be built. Rules will be rigidly enforced and no vegetables or produce will be sold that does not come up to standard. No sales will be permitted at a price above the prevailing price of the day, and if any damaged or inferior goods are purchased they will be returned.

The Telegraph avenue frontage will be 175 feet long, the depth of the building 300 feet, with a floor space of 52,500 square feet. A parking space for patrons will also be provided on the property directly back of the new market.

COLD INCREASES FAST.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 11.—A drop of 47 degrees in twenty hours was reported by the weather bureau here today with the thermometer registering eight degrees below zero.

Auditorium Rentals
For 7 Months Net
City Nearly $8000

Nearly $8000 was added to the city treasury in seven months by the municipal auditorium, according to statistics just finished by Ralph York, executive secretary of the department of public works. The income was $24,304.49 and the expense totaled $16,333.90.

As an example of the fluctuating business of the auditorium, York has compiled the following figures and percentages, showing the increase of income of each month over the year before, and the total number of events.

	Evts.	Pr. Ct.
July	74	115
August	64	141
September	90	71
October	79	47
November	68	147
December	82	260
January	89	170

Some months a few shows bring a big income, according to York. In other periods a large number of events may bring almost nothing because of the number of free shows and charity benefits.

Gets Three Months

The suitcase was taken from a drug store at Thirteenth street and Broadway. The suitcase belonged to Mrs. Frieda Bresette and contained clothing valued at $45.

"Nobody to Play With"

FOLKS are naturally companionable. When your heart overflows with happiness you like someone to rejoice with you. Even "misery loves company." The most forlorn urchin in the world is the one who has nobody to play with. He can't be happy.

All of us are continually surrounded by better thoughts and things. When we consistently overlook them we are as badly off as the youngster who has to play alone.

The business of bringing these thoughts and things to you is the service of advertising. It is the voice of the loom, the shop, the foundry, the laboratory—all the places where minds turn pleasant thoughts into worthwhile things for you.

Do you read the advertisements in the paper?

Do it. It's a paying habit
